The GPHCC invests in a brighter future for Philadelphia's Latino Students.

For a brighter future for the Philadelphia youth and a better chance on becoming Latino Professionals, the GPHCC invests in Latino students through their annual Youth Summit.

May 8, 2019 - Philadelphia, PA. –

Recognizing that the economic development of the Latino community rests on the success its young, the GPHCC has designed the annual Youth Summit, sponsored by AT&T and taking place on May 17th, 2019 at Esperanza College. At the Summit, high school students from around region will convene, not only to learn about college and career options, but also, to be inspired by success stories told by professionals of color.

"The Youth Summit is unique in that it not only exposes Latino students to careers and educational opportunities they may not have been familiar with, but they also get to interact with successful professionals of color who are relatable because they may share similar cultures, backgrounds and experiences." said Jennifer Rodríguez, President & CEO of the Greater Philadelphia Hispanic Chamber of Commerce.

As part of the agenda of this event, and with the intention of preparing Latino students for the next steps after graduating school, GPHCC designed workshops, such as, Resume & Job Interviewing, Financial Literacy, and College Preparation. In addition, students will have a chance to meet representatives from various colleges and universities, who will answer questions about admissions, academics and financial aid.
